

-- Legal Notice --

*This summary notice is authorized by the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.
Before any money is paid, there will be a settlement approval hearing.*

TO: Visa-, MasterCard- and Diners Club-branded Credit and Debit/ATM Cardholders

If you (individuals, companies, and agencies) used a Visa or MasterCard credit or debit/ATM card, or a Diners Club credit card (including charge cards) to make a foreign transaction between February 1, 1996 and November 8, 2006, you could get a refund from a class action settlement. The settlement applies to you even if you did not make a foreign transaction, and you will benefit from it.

What is this lawsuit about?

The lawsuit (called In re Currency Conversion Fee Antitrust Litigation) claims that Visa, MasterCard, their member banks, and Diners Club conspired to set and hide the price of foreign transactions (including fees, typically 1-3%) in violation of federal and state law, and that Visa and MasterCard inflated their base exchange rates before applying these fees. The Defendants (Visa, MasterCard, Bank of America, Bank One/First USA, Chase, Citibank, Diners Club, HSBC/Household, MBNA and Washington Mutual/Provident) deny these claims.

What is the settlement?

The settlement provides $336,000,000 to pay claims, the costs of administering the settlement and notice, and court-awarded attorneys' fees (up to 27.5% of the estimated $313,000,000 expected to remain in the settlement fund after deducting costs for administration and notice, plus interest and expenses) and awards for the class representatives. The Defendants also agree to certain disclosure-related practices. If approved, the settlement will bind you. If you are eligible to make a claim and do not opt out, you will release all claims related to any foreign transaction, or the subject matters of the lawsuit, against the Defendants, the member banks, and related entities and individuals. Claims in other cases involving foreign transactions will also be extinguished, but you can still make a claim here, if you are eligible for a refund. Settlement agreements have also been signed in some of these other cases. These agreements include payment of fees and expenses to attorneys, some of whom have represented the Plaintiff in Schwartz v. Visa (CA). These payments will not reduce the $336,000,000 settlement.

Do I have to go to court?

No, but you may if you want to. You may also hire an attorney, at your own cost, if you want to. The court hearing to decide whether to approve the settlement is on March 31, 2008 at 11:00 a.m. at the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, 500 Pearl Street, New York, NY, 10007-1581. If you plan to go, check with the court to confirm the time and date.

Am I eligible for a refund?

Yes, if you made a foreign transaction with a Visa, MasterCard, or Diners Club credit or debit/ATM card between February 1, 1996 and November 8, 2006. The amount of your refund will depend on which claim form you choose, the amount of total claims, the dollar value of your claim, the bank that issued your card, and the amount of money available to pay claims. You might only get a partial refund.

Do I have other options?

Yes, you may:

- Object. You must file your written objection and proof of class membership with the court. You do not have to go to court or hire an attorney. But you can if you want to, at your own cost.

Deadline: February 14, 2008

- Opt out. If you are eligible for a refund from the settlement but do not want one, and you want to keep your right to sue for money, you must opt out by sending the opt-out form letter (available at: www.ccfsettlement.com, or by calling: 1-800-945-9890) to: P. O. Box 280, Philadelphia, PA 19105. If you opt out, you cannot get money from the settlement. You cannot opt out of the part of the settlement involving agreed disclosure-related practices.

Deadline: February 14, 2008
